Criteria	Score awarded 1-5
Observations / Suggestions:
1. The existence of an abstract that announces the author's thesis and, possibly, the conclusion. The conclusions and the abstract agree with the content of the article.
Observations / Suggestions:
2. The article presents the three essential parts: introduction, demonstration and conclusions. Thus, it is correctly argued, it is based on a theoretical apparatus to which it refers and does not contain errors of expression or logical fractures.
Observations / Suggestions:
3. The chosen study method is clearly defined.
Observations / Suggestions:
4. Appreciate to what extent the material proposed for publication represents an original contribution (either through the consistent enrichment of the documentary/information base, or through the explicit application/testing of new research methods and models, or through the major renewal of the interpretation of the studied phenomena, or through the synthesis and systematization of available information).
Observations / Suggestions:
5. Citations, bibliographic sources and footnotes are correctly used. The spelling is correct, the expression clear, the vocabulary academic, adapted to the target audience.
Observations / Suggestions:

6. The relevance of the article for the field of foreign languages, cultures and civilizations with relevance for the security and intelligence fields.
